INDIANA TEMPERANCE WOMEN PICK BREWERY OWNER FOR BIG ADDRESS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
FORT WAYNE (Ind.) June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The local W. C. T. U. branch, in arranging for its annual Fourth of July program, secured the services of State Senator Fleming to deliver an address on the new Indiana liquor law, known as the Proctor law. Senator Fleming is the manager and chief owner of a large brewery which sells its products in Chicago, Kansas City, New York and other cities. He is one of the four brewers in the last Legislature who dictated what should pass. He is a warm defender of the Proctor law and was eager to explain its workings to the camp of the enemy.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW IS INTERPRETED.

HOW IT AFFECTS WOMEN IN THE CANNERY.

Does Not Apply to Those Handling Perishable Fruits or Vegetables, Clerks and Stenographers Other Than Telephone, Telegraph and Express Excepted from Provisions.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In response to a request by State Labor Commissioner John P. McLaughlin, State Attorney-General U. S. Webb has handed down an opinion interpreting the women's eight-hour law as it applies to stenographers and women working in fruit canneries. The opinion takes cognizance of the "misplaced comma" in the act as it applies to stenographers or clerks employed by telephone, telegraph and express companies and says that when the intent of the law is clear the mistake in punctuation will not be considered as nullifying the intention.

In effect, the opinion of the Attorney-General is that the law does not apply to clerks or stenographers working in offices other than those of telephone, telegraph and express companies.

Dealing with the question of the law in its application to women working in fruit, the opinion of the Attorney-General says that the law clearly intends to permit women handling perishable fruit or vegetables to work more than eight hours.

Women employed in labeling, tallying and in doing other clerical work connected with the handling of fruit are not within the purview of the act according to the Attorney-General, for he holds, after fruit or vegetables are canned they no longer are perishable and consequently those women employed in the tasks in question are not within the purview of the act.

Later, when warned by the government his scheme was illegal, he sold a magazine subscription, without specifying the name of the magazine, as a basis for his sales talk. Later, he started the Winner Magazine to fulfill his obligations with the subscribers. The Winner Magazine was the outgrowth of the Winner publication.

It is charged that the majority of the Lewis corporations were a part of the Lewis "chain system" of doing business, and that no part of the stock of any company was ever paid up in cash property or services. The aggregate debts of these several corporations and of Lewis personally, it is alleged, are considerably over $5,000,000.

The petition charges that the indebtedness of one corporation was shifted to another, and then another, until finally Lewis, having no more resources to fall back upon, was forced to throw everything into the hands of a reorganization committee in order to retain control over it.

SENATORIAL CAREER.
Lewis' up and down career, traced from the beginning, is as follows:
1870—Born in Winnet, Ct., the son of a clergyman.

1887—Appointed American agent for Amsterdam diamond house and placed in charge of five salesmen.
1888—Graduates from Trinity College, New York.

1889—Travels for Waterbury Watch Company.
1892—Marries Mabel Wellington in Baltimore, Md.

1893—Wife's illness compels him to give up traveling. Moves to Nashville, Tenn., and goes into patent medicine business.
1894—Moves to St. Louis and enters employ of Moffitt Drug Company.

1895—Loses a fortune in patent medicine investment.
1898—Buys Winner Magazine for a small sum.
1901—Changes name of publication to Woman's Magazine and plans University City.

1902—Purchases Woman's Farm Journal.
1904—Organizes People's Union Bank. Begins erection of buildings at University City.

STARTS DAILY PAPER.
1905—Starts the Journal of Agriculture and the Woman's National Daily. United States government issues fraud order against Lewis' Buildings at University City completed; more than $2,500,000 spent.
1906—Government fails to convict Lewis of defraud, and the people through the mails; buys the Star and Chronicle; plans to reorganize bank; former third Assistant Postmaster Madden writes book scoring government for prosecution of Lewis; Lewis on trial second time. Acquired; Lewis the Baptist Church for $75,000 for alleged libel; offers to raise $30,000 for two monuments for G.A.R. and D.O.C. in University City; offers sale of stock of Star to the jeweler for the costly present.

Lewis Fine Juggler With Finance.

Head of American League of Women Given Sixteen Days to Answer.

Forms Scores of Companies, Some of Which Survive Strass of Time.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
ST. LOUIS (Mo.) June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attorneys for S. O. Lewis, boy-wizard of finance and president of the American Woman's League, which has ramifications in every State of the Union and many Canadian provinces, were given today sixteen days in which to appear in the United States Federal court for a final settlement of the two re-convertible suits filed against his corporations yesterday.

"I want both sides in court ready to try this case," said Judge Dyer, "and I want the attorneys for the defense to give me assurances, as an officer of the court, that all property will be kept intact till the case is heard."

Judge Dyer gave Lewis' counsel ten days in which to prepare their answer and five additional days for rebuttal.

MILLIONS FROM DOLLAR.
Lewis, according to the allegations which cite his own declarations, laid the nucleus of what two years ago was estimated to be a personal fortune of from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, with a total capital of $1.25.

Lewis in 1904, issued a booklet which, distributed mainly by the league members, setting forth the use and value of his career and citing his adeptness in finance with a trifling sum as a test case.

According to creditors' allegations of his acts, Lewis incorporated the Progressive Watch Company in 1898, with his wife, Mabel Lewis, and one other person. He began selling watches costing 67 cents by a compound end-of-chain system. He realized $1 million in five months.

Later, when warned by the government his scheme was illegal, he sold a magazine subscription, without specifying the name of the magazine, as a basis for his sales talk. Later, he started the Winner Magazine to fulfill his obligations with the subscribers. The Winner Magazine was the outgrowth of the Winner publication.

It is charged that the majority of the Lewis corporations were a part of the Lewis "chain system" of doing business, and that no part of the stock of any company was ever paid up in cash property or services. The aggregate debts of these several corporations and of Lewis personally, it is alleged, are considerably over $5,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Col. William E. Chilton and his lovely wife have been welcomed to society at the capital perhaps more warmly because of the vicissitudes encountered by the society in gaining his Senatorial toga in West Virginia, and, later, hanging to it in the face of desperate opposition.

Both Col. Chilton and his wife are well known and will be a valuable addition to social circles. They are members of fine old families and it is understood they will entertain frequently in the lavishly Southern hospitality style. Col. Chilton is in for the long term from his State and is making preparations to establish himself firmly during his tenure of office. In this ambition he will be ably aided by Mrs. Chilton, who also has fighting blood in her veins.

Pending the storm over the Senatorial elections in West Virginia they have not appeared much in public, waiting until their title was made clear.

CAPITALISTS GET DOLLAR A DAY. LABOR TWO DOLLARS FROM SUGAR.

"And Yet They Are Down on the Corporations," Says Heike, for Several Years the Twenty-Thousand-Dollar Secretary of the American Refining Company, in Testimony Before House Committee.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Five hours were spent today by Charles R. Heike, for several years the $20,000-a-year secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, in testifying before the House sugar investigating committee that he knew nothing about the policies or inner history of the company.

The matters the committee tried to find out about, but concerning which Mr. Heike knew little, were many. One was the interest of the American Sugar Refining Company in the National Sugar Refining Company. He said the former owned $5,000,000 preferred stock in the latter, or a little more than half. He had no idea why a little more than one-half was purchased. Neither did he know that the American Sugar Refining Company was cognizant of the claim, now under litigation, that $10,000,000 common stock in the National was in existence at the time it purchased the Secretary of State On Stand.

Fails to Clear Mystery of Voucher for the Picture of Day.

Hamlin Hints of Suspicion That Documents Were "Doctored."

Letter From Calcutta Credits Hay With Fathering the Transaction.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
WASHINGTON, June 14.—The mystery that surrounds the sudden discovery in the State Department of the Day portrait voucher, found a week ago on the floor of the office of Disbursing Clerk Morrison, was not cleared up when Secretary Knox appeared today before the Hamilton Committee. The secretary explained apparently to the satisfaction of the committee the payment of $1000 to Frederick Hale, son of former Senator Hale of Maine, for services in connection with the Canadian boundary negotiations.

Mr. Knox produced the sections of the treaty of 1892, which authorized negotiations with Canada to establish the line through Passamaquoddy Bay. Mr. Hale was employed for this work, performed his duties to the satisfaction of Secretary Root, and Secretary Knox approved his bill of $5000 a few weeks after coming into control of the State Department.

DIPLOMATIC WORK.
"Mr. Hale was not employed actually to locate the boundary, but for the diplomatic work of agreeing on the line through Passamaquoddy Bay," said Mr. Knox. "When he failed to reach an agreement with Great Britain, the matter automatically went to arbitration. Congress then appropriated $15,000 for that work, but Mr. Bryce and I sat in my office one day and settled the matter, not regarding it of enough value to go to the expense of arbitration. We reduced our agreement to writing, it became a treaty between the United States and Great Britain and as such was ratified by the Senate."

As to the voucher signed by Albert Rosenzweig, the portrait painter, calling for $2450, of which sum Rosenzweig got but $850, Mr. Knox could give no new data. He had started a search for it as soon as he heard about the case and the search failed to reveal any trace of the voucher or letters supposed to be with it. A week ago Mr. Carr, chief of the Census Bureau, brought the voucher and ploughed Mr. Knox, saying they had been found on the floor of Disbursing Clerk Morrison's office.

"Did you make any inquiry to find out how they got there?" asked Chairman Hamlin.
"I did," said Secretary Knox, "and could learn nothing. All I know about the whole case is embodied in the voucher and the papers attached to it."

ELEMENT OF MYSTERY.
At this point Secretary Knox added a new element to the mystery.
"You will be interested in another receipt from Mr. Rosenzweig that is attached to the papers," he said. "It was signed January 13, 1904, and is for $750 with a notation that $50 for the frame of Secretary Day's picture had been paid to a Washington picture designer."

Mr. Hamlin grabbed the papers.
"Where did this second receipt come from?" he demanded.
"I found it with the papers; that is all I know of it," said Secretary Knox.

The members of the committee upon examination found it was not actually dated January 13, 1904, but read:
"Received January 5, 1904, the sum of $150," with an explanation of the purpose.

Mr. Hamlin declared he believed there was something wrong with the receipt. He intimated he believed it had been fixed up, at least as to the explanation written in ink across the bottom after the present investigation began.

"Do you mean that you suspect some one in the State Department is guilty of committing perjury?" demanded Secretary Knox with heat.
"There is no intention to reflect upon you personally, Mr. Secretary," replied the chairman, "but I am strongly of the opinion that this was prepared after this inquiry began."

"Then you think that Mr. Rosenzweig has written at least part of this receipt since the time indicated in it?" said Mr. Knox.

Mr. Hamlin replied he thought it was a curious receipt and that he intended to probe the circumstances.
"I will welcome such an investigation," Secretary Knox said, "and if you can corroborate your theory and can show that anyone in the State Department was cognizant of such an act, there will be some vacancies in the department."

Howard Langston, the messenger in Disbursing Clerk Morrison's office who found the envelope containing the voucher on the floor, said he found called it curious.

He explained the $750,000 was equivalent to a penalty under the Sherman anti-trust law.
Mr. Heike was unable to explain

ROUT MAGONISTAS,
MADERO'S ORDER.Piloen to Move at Once on Lower California.Will Take Picked Men and Cannon With Him.Socialists and Anarchists Are Raiding Ranches.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

EL PASO (Tex.) June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the knowledge that the Lower California Magonistas are seeking to hire Americans along the border and are in every way preparing daily to strengthen their cause, Francisco I. Madero has ordered that they be proceeded against at once. Today he wired B. J. Villero, his military adviser here, to pick up as many volunteers as he could depend upon in Juarez, take the available artillery and go at once to Lower California, declaring that he would see that reinforcements followed, but to not delay here waiting for them.

Villero is preparing to leave at once.

In raiding the Davis ranch, near here, the Magonistas took several horses, rifles, and a supply of ammunition. In their ranks were the Silvas, father and two sons, arrested in El Paso last week for having arms and ammunition in their possession, and now out on bond.

Yesterday, the ranch of an American, Lamar Davis of El Paso, was raided by Magonistas near here in Mexico, the raiders taking arms and ammunition and offering resistance to the Maderista troops who came to pursue them.

In Nuevo Leon, near Monterrey, the Magonistas in an ineffectual attempt to cause an uprising in the ranks, whereupon additional forces were sent by the Maderistas and a battle followed in which several, including the leaders, were killed.

That's Where the Anarchistic Republic of "Liberal Socialists" Promises Soon to Vanish.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

MEXICALI (Mex.) June 14.—The proposed "Liberal Socialist Republic" of Lower California, probably will never vanish into this air, as far as an armed force to support the plans of the revolutionist leaders is necessary to its success.

The rebel garrison here under Gen. Quijada has been lately fast dwindling in numbers, many of the former insurgents joining the loyalist force now being recruited by Senor Gallegos. A proclamation was issued today in Spanish by Gallegos, calling upon all loyal Mexicans to rally to the standard of the reorganized Mexican government and loyalty to support the restoration of stable conditions. Gallegos plans to regain control of this place by force of arms if necessary, but from all appearances a delay of a few days will enable him to march into the town without opposition.

COPENHAGEN, June 14.—Johann Severin Svendsen, the Norwegian composer, died today. He was born in Christiania in 1856. In 1882 he was appointed royal musical conductor at Copenhagen. His violin, concert, symphonies and Norwegian songs placed him among the most prominent orchestral composers of modern times.

SUGAR TRUST INVESTIGATED.

why President Havemeyer had such a control over the American if he only held in his own name a few shares. Mr. Beck suggested that probably more shares were held in the name of brokers.

"The stockholders were apparently satisfied to re-elect the directors from year to year," said Mr. Heike in explanation of Mr. Havemeyer's power. Then, forgetting, seemingly, the reserve which had characterized his testimony, Mr. Heike launched into a defense of the corporation. The occasion was a remark that there are 19,000 stockholders of the American Sugar Refining Company.

There are about 4800 stockholders with dividends of about $230 a year or $1 a day," said Heike. "The company also has between ten and eleven thousand laboring men. Consequently, we have about 30,000 people, of which there are 19,000 capitalists, who get a dollar a day, and the rest laborers who get 25 cents a day. And yet they are down on the corporation."

UNDER HAVEMEYER.

That the American company, under President Havemeyer's administration, stood upon the giving of information regarding the company even to stockholders, was brought out by a reference to the minute books of the stockholders' meeting.

Chairman Hardwick had inserted into the record as bearing on the point the following resolution adopted at the stockholders' meeting January 13, 1904:

"Resolved, that any information of a general character which the directors may see fit to make public may be furnished to all stockholders and that no further information is to be given to the individual stockholders."

Representative Madison expressed interest in the statement that there was not much discussion of business at directors' meetings. He asked if there were not other strong men on the board besides Havemeyer, such as John E. Parsons. Mr. Heike said Mr. Parsons was a lawyer and knew little about refining sugar.

"But hasn't the American made its money out of manipulation of stocks and organization of corporations rather than out of refining sugar?" inquired Mr. Madison.

Mr. Heike was not willing to agree to that nor to acknowledge that stock had been watered.

Representative Garrett questioned Mr. Heike closely about the purchase and closing of the United States Sugar Refining Company.

"It was poorly located," said Mr. Heike.

"You were willing to pay $700,000 cash for it?"

"Yes, sir."

Deal Engaged With Secrecy.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

COLTON, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. E. Colton, formerly of San Francisco, acting for himself and Pacific Coast capitalists, has completed plans for the opening at once of the Panama Lumber Company.

Three companies, organized, have commenced the installation of necessary machinery towards equipping mills with a capacity of handling the vast amount of timber that will be brought in from the Isthmus belt.

The purchasing of the timber lands and the forming of the company was carried out with secrecy, and the buying of large tracts of land gave no inkling of the deal pending.

Mr. Colton has been in the lumber business forty years and is well known in the Pacific Coast, where he has been active in the lumber trade of Oregon and California. His five years' investigation of the hardwood reserves of Panama led him to the companies which will soon export to southern ports, to San Francisco and West Coast ports in great quantities.

EX-JUSTICE OF FEDERAL SUPREME COURT
DENOUNCES DIRECT ELECTIONS OF SENATORS.Income Tax Will Be a Bad Thing for Country, Says Shiras, Because It Enables National Government to Take Money from the States—Doubts That the Magazine Writers Can Improve One Jot on Constitution.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Despite his 60 years, George Shiras of Pittsburgh, former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, today delivered a vigorous blow to the magazine muckrakers and amenders of the United States Constitution before he left Chicago for Marquette, Mich., to spend the summer.

Mr. Shiras declared that the move to amend the Constitution so that Senators shall be elected by a direct vote was wrong. He also expressed his disapproval of the income tax amendment.

"I doubt," declared the former Justice, "whether the young men, who are writing for the magazines for the profit of the publications, are more than the property of the country, can improve upon the work of the founders of the government."

INEXPERIENCED YOUTH.

These muckrakers are mostly inexperienced young men, immature, and the Constitution of the United States probably is a better document than they could produce.

Mr. Shiras said he had been in the Senate he would have voted against the popular election of Senators on Monday when the Upper House passed the proposed amendment by a majority of one vote.

"I don't believe the ward politicians who fill the conventions with their mouthpieces would select as fine a body of men as compose the Senate at this time and has composed it in the past," he said.

"The founders of the republic were right, I believe, when they created a Senate to be composed of men elected by and representing the Legislatures of the various States.

CHANGED HIS VOTE.

While a member of the Supreme Court, Mr. Shiras first voted to sustain the income tax, but when he changed his mind, he was elected by and representing the Legislatures of the various States.

From the present tendency to change things and to experiment, I would not be surprised to see the Federal income tax amendment ratified, but I should be sorry to see such a thing.

"It would be a bad thing, indeed, for the country," Mr. Shiras has not practiced law since he retired from the bench, eight years ago.

Revelations.

FACTS OF THE DISASTER TO THE MAINE

MAY BE KNOWN BEFORE SUNDOWN TODAY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

HAVANA, June 14.—Before sunset tomorrow the work of removing the water from the cofferdam enclosing the wreck of the battleship Maine will be carried to a point low enough to reveal portions of the wreck submerged for thirteen years, including a part of the midship section immediately affected by the explosion, the whole quarter-deck and a portion of the berth deck, in which it is believed lie most of the unrecovered bodies.

This was determined after a conference today between Gen. Bitcher and Col. Black and Patrick, following a minute examination of the wreck. The officers were fully satisfied that the explosion had taken place in the midship section.

On the completion of the separation, it is intended to dissect the forward section by blast into portable fragments, which will be taken out piecemeal. After that, in default of Banker John W. Springer, indicates there will be neither a reconciliation nor a monetary settlement, and that the next move will be the filing of a cross-bill, or some other action by way of contest, on behalf of Mrs. Springer.

She has not given up hope of being taken back by her husband, and her attorneys are still working with the view of bringing about a meeting of husband and wife. They feel that the negotiations may result in a satisfactory settlement out of court.

To his friends, John W. Springer has said that he would "never consider the proposition."

Much comment was occasioned by the report that the files in the divorce case had been withdrawn from the court. The papers were merely taken out for reference by attorneys, who said that they would not be withdrawn.

One of the attorneys in the case insists that no settlement will be made, and stated that the hearing of the divorce testimony in the case will be behind closed doors, on account of the nature of the charges.

Mrs. Springer refuses to be seen.

ITALIAN HAND CASTS SHADOW.

Machievellian Tactics of the Sicilian Growers. In League With Carriers on a Rebate Basis.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Agricultural Department officials in Italy report that the Sicilian lemon growers have made a combination with the steamship companies whereby they hope to kill two or three birds with one stone.

With the consent of the shippers the steamship lines have made a nominal increase in rates to America. They are nominal because, at stated intervals, it is provided the increase shall be nearly all related to the shippers.

There is, however, a small holdout to be used in paying the expenses of a lobby, the headquarters of which will be in New York. The object of this lobby will be to instill into the minds of Americans the belief that they are paying an immense tribute to American growers by reason of the increase in tariff rates made in the Payne tariff law. That, however, is not the only bird.

The nominally higher rates will enable advocates of a lower duty to add the nominally higher rate to the cost of laying Messina fruit down in America, and thereby deceive the Democratic revisers of the tariff, who, it is assumed, will be willing to hearken to the voice of the importer by this fudging on the prices made to represent the cost of production in Sicily.

The Italians and American importers expect to be able to convince the Democrats that the duty should be reduced at least to the level of the Dingley bill.

NEW YORK, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following her third arraignment before Magistrate French in the West Side Court today and the reduction of her bail from $25,000 to $15,000, Ethel Conrad, younger of the two show girls who shot W. E. D. Stokes last Wednesday, rejected the offer of an "angel" to bail her out and reiterated the entreaties of her mother and brother to leave her prison cell and the company of her "chum," Lillian Graham, formerly of Los Angeles.

After all her pleadings had failed, Mrs. Charles Nagle, the girl's mother, who is now living with her second husband in East Hundred seventh-ninth street, declared her daughter was under a hypnotic influence exerted by her fellow-prisoner. The mother said she had been under the influence for months and that she and her son had sought in vain to break it.

Not only did Miss Conrad spurn the generous offer of an "angel," but she rejected in court the services of Herman Phillips, the counsel her mother engaged today in the person of B. F. Elbert of Des Moines, Iowa.

In the office of Mr. Phillips, Mr. Elbert showed a communication from the offices of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of this city, to the effect that they would furnish a $25,000 bond for Miss Conrad upon his request.

Denver Banker's Action for Legal Separation Will Therefore Probably Be Contested by Spouse, Who,
However, Has Not Abandoned
Hope of Reconciliation.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

DENVER (Colo.) June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Developments in the divorce proceedings instituted by Banker John W. Springer against Isabelle Patterson, Springer indicates there will be neither a reconciliation nor a monetary settlement, and that the next move will be the filing of a cross-bill, or some other action by way of contest, on behalf of Mrs. Springer.

She has not given up hope of being taken back by her husband, and her attorneys are still working with the view of bringing about a meeting of husband and wife. They feel that the negotiations may result in a satisfactory settlement out of court.

Much comment was occasioned by the report that the files in the divorce case had been withdrawn from the court. The papers were merely taken out for reference by attorneys, who said that they would not be withdrawn.

One of the attorneys in the case insists that no settlement will be made, and stated that the hearing of the divorce testimony in the case will be behind closed doors, on account of the nature of the charges.

Mrs. Springer refuses to be seen.

ITALIAN HAND CASTS SHADOW.

Machievellian Tactics of the Sicilian Growers. In League With Carriers on a Rebate Basis.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Agricultural Department officials in Italy report that the Sicilian lemon growers have made a combination with the steamship companies whereby they hope to kill two or three birds with one stone.

With the consent of the shippers the steamship lines have made a nominal increase in rates to America. They are nominal because, at stated intervals, it is provided the increase shall be nearly all related to the shippers.

There is, however, a small holdout to be used in paying the expenses of a lobby, the headquarters of which will be in New York. The object of this lobby will be to instill into the minds of Americans the belief that they are paying an immense tribute to American growers by reason of the increase in tariff rates made in the Payne tariff law. That, however, is not the only bird.

The nominally higher rates will enable advocates of a lower duty to add the nominally higher rate to the cost of laying Messina fruit down in America, and thereby deceive the Democratic revisers of the tariff, who, it is assumed, will be willing to hearken to the voice of the importer by this fudging on the prices made to represent the cost of production in Sicily.

The Italians and American importers expect to be able to convince the Democrats that the duty should be reduced at least to the level of the Dingley bill.

REPRIEVED THIRD TIME.

SACRAMENTO, June 14.—For the third time Gov. Johnson today reprieved Willie Lewis, a Chinese, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his stepmother in San Luis Obispo. The Governor will look into the case further.

MONS. JULES LEFEVRE.

PARIS, June 14.—Mons. Jules Lefevre, the famous portrait painter, is dead. He was born in 1826.

Emperor Nicholas will visit the American Lattitutine in Constantinople at the end of the month.

Tomorrow Rear-Admiral Badger will give a reception on the Kansas. The division will sail on Sunday.

TO COMPLETE GREAT WORK.

President May Recommend
Emergency Appropriation
Colorado River.

(Associated Press, Night Report.)
WASHINGTON, June 14.—After a conference between President Taft, Secretary of the Interior Fisher, and Judge E. A. Lovett, and Maxwell Evans of the Harriman lines at the White House today, Mr. Fisher said the President probably would send a special message to Congress asking an emergency appropriation to complete the protection of the Colorado River floods.

RECIROCITY BILL IN SENATE.

After reviewing testimony introduced in the hearings of the Finance Committee relative to Canadian and American prices Senator McCumber said:

"I say again that the farmer who for years has looked forward to that period when consumption and production of wheat, barley and flax should equal each other in this country will be doomed to remain for a century to come absolutely independent on and subservient to the world's level of prices for his products; and that with the enormous possibility of grain production in the Canadian Northwest those prices will be lower comparatively than he has received for a number of years."

"HYPERBOLIC MEASURE."

After stating his fears that the President does not realize the enormous possibilities of the Canadian country and declaring that it is time enough to open Canadian sources when the food supply of the United States is really threatened, Senator McCumber considered the political effect the measure would have. He declared that it was neither Republican nor Democratic, but a hybrid measure which inheres none of the good qualities of the one parent and only the bad qualities of the other.

During the progress of Mr. McCumber's speech he engaged in a spirited colloquy with Senator Martineau of New Jersey.

Mr. Martineau was attempting to state that the American farmer had failed to procure his share of the property of the last few years.

Mr. Martineau's questions were intended to develop the fact that the failure was due to the protective policy, but Mr. McCumber declared that the American market for agricultural products had been improved by conditions in other industries, due to tariff.

"Your specious arguments and dissonant policy have failed to put bread into the mouths of the people," Mr. Martineau fairly roared.

"You gave a lesson of your North Dakota," and by jingo, we don't want more of it."

Senator Curtis, declared that the people generally were not interested regarding the pending legislation and that they should be given opportunity to study the subject under the regular session of Congress.

Mr. Martineau's trade with Canada last year had amounted to $100,000,000, he said, and that this was a record for the disastrous policy which was followed from 1814 to 1866. Mr. Martineau declared that the trade relations with Canada are now satisfactory to the United States and why should we change them? By this agreement we are to lose to them our splendid market of $90,000,000 per annum, and in return they give us a market which is now largely controlled by our producers. There is no better home market for the world than ours, and why should we part with a portion of it without an equivalent return?

He also contended that to open up our markets to Canadian products would mean that a large number of people would be attracted to Canada by the low price of land, and that the development and production would follow.

LOWER TAX RATE FOR THE TERRITORY.

Increased Assessment Partly Responsible for It.

Heavy Thunder Storms Visit Sections of Arizona.

Watch in His Pocket Saves a Man from Death.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)
PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 13.—Possibly the fact that Gov. Sloan this year has been untrammelled by the usual biennial session of the Legislature, the tax rate for Territorial purposes will be the lowest ever known. There is a prospect that the rate may be down to 60 cents. Appropriations made by one Legislature of late years necessitated a tax rate of $1.30.

The reduction will not wholly be due to administrative economies. It will be helped materially by an increase of nearly $5,000,000 by the Board of Equalization in the valuation of railroad property within the Territory. The aggregate railroad assessment now stands at $14,653,681.

At a meeting of County Assessors lately held in Phoenix agreement was arrived at concerning a uniform method for the taxation of lands and personal property, which is expected to raise the total assessment several millions.

PART OF THE INCREASE.

A part of the increase upon railroad property has come through expiration of tax exemption concessions granted by Legislatures to the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railroad, the Bradshaw Mountain Railroad, on ninety-four miles of the Phoenix and Eastern Railroad and on forty-five miles of the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad system. This added railroad assessment amounts in all to $3,834,033. There still remains exempt railroad property estimated to be worth, for taxation, $3,352,253. Most of this belongs to the Santa Fe system.

The heaviest railroad taxpayer is the Southern Pacific company, which has been raised to $17,500 a mile on 222 miles, a total assessment of $3,834,033, a million-dollar raise. An offshoot of the Southern Pacific is the Arizona Eastern, better known as the Randolph line, in which the Phoenix division has been divided in the year to $742,320, while the Globe division has been left about the same with $1,384,100, and the Cochise division with $116,187. The main line of the El Paso and Southwestern, with 133 miles in Arizona reckoned at $13,000 a mile, has been raised about $600,000 to a gross assessment of $1,814,670.

STILL SOME EXEMPT.

Including 467 miles of exemption expired road this year assessed for the first time, the Territory now is collecting revenue from 1454 miles of railway, there still being 610 miles exempt. To the next roll will be added the constructed in 1910, the Kelvin division of the Arizona Eastern, eight miles; the logging road of the Flagstaff Lumber Company, twelve miles and seven miles of the Twin Buttes Railroad, purchased and rebuilt by the Southern Pacific.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Gov. Johnson announced that he saw no reason for changing the decision of the trial jury and judge nor in modifying any of the verdicts.

This is the last hope which Maganya has for escaping the gallows and means that Maganya will hang the morning of Friday, June 16th.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce are taking steps to invoke the copyright law against real estate dealers and others of the northern part of this State who have stolen pictures of the Baird orchard, the show orange grove of Central California, and pictures of the Sacramento and San Joaquin river valleys.

In the last edition of the folders of Sacramento realty firm, the orchard appeared under the caption, "Princely Orange Grove in the Sacramento District Near Our, the orchard has been put in for third-class passengers. As third-class fares were formerly supplied with only three seats, these new cars will be welcomed by the class travelers by night."

The length of the car which rests on two four-wheel trucks is fifty-nine feet six inches and the width is ten feet. The cars are divided into compartments, each with two seats and a sleeping berth. The compartments are each with two seats and a sleeping berth. The compartments are each with two seats and a sleeping berth.

From Orcutt, a neighboring town at the edge of the oil fields, there came today a complaint to the Humane Society, the complaint signed by the President of the Presbyterian church, endorsed by upwards of a dozen leading business men, in which J. B. Jaber, a teamster of this city, accused of horrible cruelty to animals.

It is alleged that Jaber has been in the habit of saturating the hair of his horses with kerosene and then turning them out into the blazing hot, desert sun, with the result that the horses' hair has been singed and the kerosene has been absorbed into their bodies. In one instance, half a dozen neighbors have made affidavit that Jaber poured oil and gasoline over a little puppy which he had ineffectually attempted to drive away from the house, and then set fire to the little beast.

In the complaint it is stated that Jaber has been guilty of similar sorts of cruelty to his horses, and that he has been in the habit of saturating the hair of his horses with kerosene and then turning them out into the blazing hot, desert sun, with the result that the horses' hair has been singed and the kerosene has been absorbed into their bodies.

TULARE WANTS MAIL DELIVERY.

Government is Willing if Houses are Numbered and Sidewalks Put in a Passable Condition.

TULARE, June 12.—At a special called meeting of the City Council held this evening, word was given to the city officials that the order for the institution of free city delivery of mail may be expected within a short time provided the Council will take steps to have all the requirements of the Post-Office Department fulfilled without further delay.

One of the requirements which has been neglected is the numbering of the houses and a special appointment was given to Ward Kish to make a careful tour of each street and see that every house within the city limits is properly numbered in accordance with the standards of the government.

It is also understood that a few of the sidewalks in the outlying districts have not been properly put in and this matter will be attended to at once as well.

NEW GRAIN SACKS.

At the meeting of the Grange held today the members of the organization went upon record as favoring steps toward the adoption of grain sacks, of a new standard to contain 160 pounds of wheat hereafter, instead of the 140 to 150 pound sacks which are in use at the present time.

It is contended that sacks of 160 pound size would be much more convenient to handle and at the same time would cost but little more than the present sacks. Copies of the resolutions that the Grange will work for the adoption of the new standard will be forwarded to granges in all parts of the grain districts of this State where granges are in organization.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO COMMUTE DEATH SENTENCE.

Foul Murder of Porterville Merchant Must Be Expiated on the Gallows—Porterville People Angry Over Shameless Theft and Use of Pictures of Orange Groves.

PORTERVILLE, June 12.—In a telegram which was received here today from Gov. Johnson's private secretary, Alexander McCabe, it is stated that the Governor has refused to extend executive clemency to Juan Maganya, the brutal murderer of J. B. Lamkin, a leading merchant of this city. Maganya is under sentence of death and through the Mexican consul of San Francisco a petition was presented to the Governor asking that the penalty be changed from death to life imprisonment.

This hearing was held this morning in the office of the Governor, Arthur Brand, a young San Francisco attorney, representing Maganya and beside the district attorney, Frank Lambe, and Sheriff Collins of this county. Mrs. Lamkin was represented at the hearing by R. B. Hale, a leading business man of Sacramento, and H. C. Carr, counsel of a leading bank of this city.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Gov. Johnson announced that he saw no reason for changing the decision of the trial jury and judge nor in modifying any of the verdicts.

This is the last hope which Maganya has for escaping the gallows and means that Maganya will hang the morning of Friday, June 16th.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY ON INTERURBAN TRAIN.

Woman Coolly Shoots Conductor, Then Herself.

Victim of Pendleton Mystery Dies at Hospital.

Motive Believed to Have Been Unrequited Affection.

PENDLETON (Or.) June 14.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Mentally deranged because of some real or fancied grievance, Mrs. Myrtle Nannie Kyle, divorced wife of Fred Kyle, a Free-water rancher, murdered Joe Harper on a Milton-Walla Walla Interurban car in Milton at 2 o'clock this morning and then killed herself.

Boarding the car as it was about to leave Milton, the woman coolly drew a revolver from the folds of her dress and fired three shots at the back of the conductor. Two of them took effect, and as the man sank to the floor mortally wounded, she turned the weapon upon herself, sending a bullet through her right thigh. Though the wound inflicted was apparently inconsequential, she died instantly.

RACE AGAINST DEATH.

Physicians were called to attend the dying man and the race against death to Walla Walla Hospital was begun. The run was made in record breaking time and the man never lost consciousness, but died at 11:44.

The motive for the terrible double tragedy can only be surmised, as the woman died without uttering a word. For the past year she has been separated from her husband in Milton. Ten days ago she was in Pendleton and through the Mexican consul of San Francisco a petition was presented to the Governor asking that the penalty be changed from death to life imprisonment.

This hearing was held this morning in the office of the Governor, Arthur Brand, a young San Francisco attorney, representing Maganya and beside the district attorney, Frank Lambe, and Sheriff Collins of this county. Asthma Victim.—The disease of asthma is probably one of the most difficult to cure, and I offer the following:—Bismuth subnitrate 10 grs. Syrup of Marshmallows 100 grs. Mix and take a teaspoonful every 4 hours, following it with a glass of water. This makes a splendid tonic for nervous, "run-down" condition.

Footsore.—Being on your feet so many hours each day is responsible for the suffering which you endure. The best remedy is as follows: To a gallon of hot water add a teaspoonful of antiseptic value powder and a tablespoonful of salicylic acid. Immerse the feet each night for 15 to 20 minutes and you will be free from suffering the agonies of tender feet.

Lemniscate.—The treatment of rheumatism you should first regulate the circulation of the blood. Always take a mild laxative, except bread, meat, poultry and fish. Take a glass of water after breakfast, while after dinner, and blue and copper. Have the following prescription properly filled: Iodide of potassium 1

FEDERAL FIST CRUSHES NEST OF REDS; FOUR LEADERS NOW IN JAIL

Magon Brothers, Rivera and Figueroa, Long Identified With Virulent Socialism, Arrested Under Grand Jury Indictments, Junta Is Confiscated and Its Backers Are Thrust, Handcuffed and Struggling, Into Prison.

UNDER Federal indictment for conspiracy in the violation of the neutrality laws, Ricardo Flores Magon, Enrique Flores Magon, Librado Rivera and Anselmo L. Figueroa were arrested yesterday and thrust into the County Jail. All four are heads of the most virulent type. For years they have been prominently identified with efforts to stir up trouble for the Mexican government, and, after insurance hostilities were declared, with the operation of the local junta for supplying contraband men and money to the revolutionists.

The arrests were made at the headquarters of the junta at the Nelson Plaza, No. 519 1/2 East Fourth street, by United States Marshal Youngworth, Deputy Marshal Durlin and Ralph Dominguez, bailiff of the United States District Court, who accompanied the officers as an interpreter and for the purpose of identifying the accused men.

Enrique Flores Magon became violent and obstreperous, and it was necessary to use handcuffs and a revolver in making the arrest. Enrique continued to assert that it was a case of mistaken identity until he reached the Marshal's office. When the picture of the gang, printed exclusively in The Times in March last, was shown him, he admitted his identity.

In the mix-up, Marshal Youngworth captured a letter that the Magon brothers struggled fiercely to conceal, and it will be used as evidence against them. It is written in Spanish, and is understood to contain very incriminating statements.

The indictment of the quartette follows a long hunt that has been pushed relentlessly by United States District Attorney McCormick and his assistants, Frank Stewart and Edward Regan. The chase that finally ended in their round-up, began about six weeks ago, when three Mexicans were arrested on the charge of drunkenness and lodged in the City Jail. They were heavily armed and suspiciously aroused that they were connected with the revolutionary movement.

It is known that the gang have been carrying on a pretentious campaign in behalf of the proposed new colony to be established in Lower California, it being the plan to establish a federation of states in Chihuahua, Sonora, Sinaloa and Baja California. The headquarters here have financed the revolution so as to harass the government of the Mexican government, and the formation of a new government in Northwestern Mexico, dictating its management so as to harass the Mexican troops without actual engagement.

ROWS OF TENTS FOR THE BOYS

"THE TIMES" CAMP IS COMPLETE AT AVALON.

All Spotlessly Clean—The Electric Light Wires and Water Pipe Have Been Extended to the Camp—Many Good Things in Store for the Young Hunters Who Will Enjoy Outings.

(Special Correspondence of The Times)

AVALON, June 14.—Carpenters completed The Times Camp here today. For three days Arthur Lee of The Times has worked industriously to complete the final arrangements. Everything is now in readiness for the arrival of the first contingent of boys who are to spend the summer on the island. The 24th inst. is to be the big day when the first lot of pleasure seekers will board the steamer Cabrillo for Avalon.

The arrival of the Los Angeles boys is the talk of the island residents. Some of the local boys have never seen the real thing, and are planning all kinds of stunts for their reception.

It is said that friendly competition will be waged among the local boys and the visiting ones. Baseball games, swimming races and other amusements are being planned.

With a capable staff of men Mr. Lee has gone over the entire camp carefully. The sanitary conditions are perfect. Back of the golf links and under the wide-spreading branches of the elderberry and palm trees the long rows of tents stand in picturesque attitude. Everything is spotlessly clean. The camp itself covers a large area and there is an unlimited space to the grounds.

Because of the continued illness of Earl Rogers and the cr-wed calendar of Justice Summerfield's calendar, the examination of O. McGinnis and Rufus Bellomy, charged with arson at Graham Station, February 26, was continued until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The defense is said not to have shown its hand yet, and there may be some interesting developments when it begins to put other witnesses upon the stand.

CONTEST A MOTHER'S WILL TO DEFEAT AN EXECUTOR

THE unusual situation of three children contesting the will of their mother, of which they are the sole beneficiaries, for the purpose of defeating the provisions of one of the executors named in the instrument, was brought to the attention of Judge Ellison of extra session No. 2 yesterday.

Portrait of a woman, likely the mother mentioned in the article.

Miss Addie Cook, alias O'Grady, a former school teacher, who paid Jones, Busse and White twelve hundred dollars for protection in running a dive, and Frank, alias "Bill" Brock, her partner, Brock, after having been in hiding three days, called at the District Attorney's office yesterday and made a confession of his part in the plot.

In a Disgraceful Deal.

Miss Addie Cook, alias O'Grady, a former school teacher, who paid Jones, Busse and White twelve hundred dollars for protection in running a dive, and Frank, alias "Bill" Brock, her partner, Brock, after having been in hiding three days, called at the District Attorney's office yesterday and made a confession of his part in the plot.

The exact nature of the reports that have been made to the District Attorney's office could not be obtained yesterday, but it is stated that they have to do with officials high in the councils of the present administration. For several days a detective employed by the District Attorney's office have been investigating the purchase of hose by the fire department. The methods in vogue about the City Hall pertaining to the securing of

and other municipal departments. The exact nature of the reports that have been made to the District Attorney's office could not be obtained yesterday, but it is stated that they have to do with officials high in the councils of the present administration.

After an all-day session, Judge Ellison admitted the will to probate and named as executor Maie Is. William B. Allison, L. Philip Wolf and Elizabeth Furst. They will be required to qualify with bonds in the amount of $12,000 each.

The attorneys indicated last night that they will appeal the case on the ground that the will was not properly stated. For months, despite the efforts of the various members of the Metropolitan Squad and uniformed men, gambling resorts have been running wide open. The majority of these are located in the downtown district. The violations of law have been open and of the most flagrant character, yet the police have been powerless.

The police have had knowledge that the dens were fleeing suckers nightly, but so carefully that stool pigeons have never had access. When the police informants realized that the officers could do nothing to put an end to the evil they went to the District Attorney's office.

Some of these places, according to the police and District Attorney's officers, are still running. They assert that one resort is located at No. 523 South Broadway, on the fifth floor. The game on tap is the old stand-by pool, and a prominent first promoter here is interested in the proceeds, according to authorities.

On the second floor of the Canadian building a gambling resort is conducted by Tom Haskell and Sam Rickard, the police say. Entry to the game is through the card system, and so carefully are the "members" tabbed that a spotter has been unable to get within for a sitting.

The Eldorado Club, on the top floor of the Germain building, is a gambling den, according to the police. Another resort of the same character, it is asserted, is located on the third floor of the Delta building. The name plate on the door bears the cognomen of a commercial club. It is declared by officers that the manager has a partner who is identified with the local fighting game.

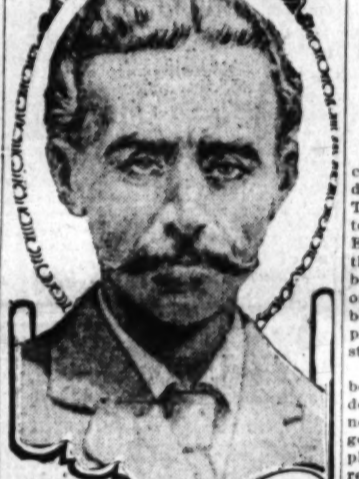

Aside from the above, it is alleged that the police have contented disorderly houses at Nos. 512 South Hill street, No. 149 North Central avenue, and No. 611 Ducommun street. The latter resort, says O'Grady, is conducted by Dave Oswald, a brother of Nick Oswald, whose manipulation of the tenderloin graft several years ago got the fingers of a number of city officials seriously glued.

The members of the Metropolitan Squad know of other resorts where gambling and other vice are conducted in open violation of the law, but owing to their inability to get evidence, they cannot institute prosecutions. This, it appears, does not reflect upon the officers, as the means for getting the noxious places are limited by the Police Commission and the city regime.

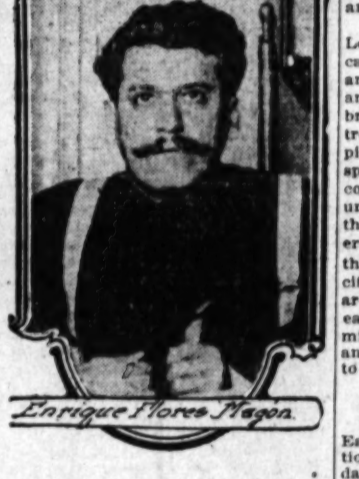

TENDERLOIN THERE.
Corroboration that a Tenderloin existed in the vicinity of No. 118 1/2 North Central avenue, where her disreputable house was located, was presented to Deputy District Attorney Helms, assistant to the chief of Criminal Investigation of the District Attorney's office yesterday by Miss Addie Cook, alias O'Grady. The woman, in a written confession, admitted that her house has been in existence since May, but stated that patronage was limited, owing to the sharp competition in the immediate neighborhood.

Unique Los Angeles Ceremony in Which Mohammedan and Jewish Religions Merged.

In a ceremony that was orthodox Jewish, with a touch of Turkish, Charles Levin and Fanny Alshabron were united in marriage by Rabbi Alfred Arndt last night at the bride's home, No. 311 North Hill street.

Unique Proceeding.

The unusual situation of three children contesting the will of their mother, of which they are the sole beneficiaries, for the purpose of defeating the provisions of one of the executors named in the instrument, was brought to the attention of Judge Ellison of extra session No. 2 yesterday.

The complications arose in connection with the will of Mrs. Fannie Dombrowski, the widow of a prominent physician of Peoria, who died in this city on March 21.

Mrs. Dombrowski made a will while she was resident of Illinois. When she determined to come to California she decided that she should make changes in the testament, naming residents of this State as executors, she having converted her property into money and mortgages.

She allowed the matter to drift until she was domiciled here. On the very day she sent for an attorney to assist her in making the changes, according to the testimony, she was suddenly taken ill and died.

It had been her plan to appoint Dr. E. B. Studer, her physician in both Peoria and this city, as the new executor. At her death he came for

IT WON'T WORK.
A Missouri stenographer has married a discharged convict. The chances are that she will object to taking dictation and that he will be restless under a life sentence.

DOWN AND OUT.
Cipriano is about to return to start another revolution in Venezuela. From this it would appear that Castro has not heard of the horrible fate of one James J. Jeffries. Don't try to come back, Cip!

BUT NOT NOISELESS.
Now for a safe and sane celebration of the coronation. It would be just too bad to have the new suit of King George all snatched up by the explosion of a bomb; but we will wager that there will be fireworks.

A WAR BOOKED.
In an address to the graduating class of the naval academy, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop predicted that we would have war in 1923, and that it would be on the sea. But at what time does the same start, and who has the peanut and moving picture rights?

THE BACK-TO-LIBERIA CRY.
The colored authority that has advised his race to have nothing to do with the "back-to-Liberia" cry, has performed a distinct public service. For poor colored people to go to that country under the present conditions prevailing there, would be nothing less than suicidal. The United States is good enough for any man, white or black.

IT ALL MEANS.
The public should encourage the general effort being made on behalf of the street car companies to have children educated in provisions for public safety. It is a corporation scheme designed to save the payment of indemnities, but the saving of one's own life and the lives of others by using a little common sense is vastly better than the attempted collection of damages.

ALL RIGHT.
Col. Roosevelt not only declares that the interview with him in which he declared that he would not be a candidate for President in 1912, was correct, but he will have nothing more to say on that subject to any one at any time. That ought to settle it. The Colonel will be found throwing his hat for Taft when the proper time comes, in spite of the Goo-Goo talk.

THE SNOOPERS.
So far the political fishing excursions organized by the House have caught nothing but minnows, and no whales or sharks have come to their nets. They set out to find out all sorts of skullduggery in the departments at Washington, and they got nothing for their pains. Snoopers Congressional committees seldom amount to anything.

NOW FOR THE RECALL!
The houses of ill fame, the bribe-takers, the gamblers, the official protectors of vice, and above all the "purity squad" may now start another movement for the "recall" of Dist. Atty. Fredericks, for has he not seriously offended? Is he not tearing the sheep's clothing from the wolves? Is he not displaying the bones in the whitened sepulchre of pharisaism and turpitude?

EQUITY REFORM.
Chief Justice White and Justices Lurton and Van Devanter of the United States Supreme Court have been named as a committee to consider the revision of the rules of the Federal Court, a subject that is very near the heart of President Taft. The main end sought in the proposed revision is speed. Under the present rules that have been in vogue since the organization of the Supreme Court, a litigant is often compelled to wait several years before his case even comes before the court.

A RAW POLITICIAN.
Lieut.-Gov. Nichols, who is in charge of the Presidential boom of Gov. Harmon, evidently does not understand the game. He has just issued a formal statement that "he considers both Bryan and Wilson to be enemies and will not until they are in the discard." The Governor of Ohio is in bad hands, and his prospects will be ruined by such talk. Presidential prospects fairer than Harmon's have been killed by such breaks. Harmon ought to have somebody like smooth "Joe" Smith, who piloted McKinley to a convention victory, to manage his campaign. But "Joe," like McKinley, is gathered to the fathers.

THE TROUBLES OF LEWIS.
E. C. Lewis, concerning whose troubles with the Postoffice Department Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas made a speech abusive of Cortelyou and Hitchcock, that occupied twenty columns of the Congressional Record, appears to be involved in considerable litigation. He is sued as a real estate company, as a savings trust company, and as a life insurance company. He was also a publication company and an American woman's league ramification. A fraud order was issued against him some time ago by the Postoffice Department. He was indicted, but escaped punishment for misuse of the mails, and civil suits were instituted against him by the Postoffice Department. While attending upon his multifarious lawsuits, he is incidentally occupying his leisure hours in addressing women's clubs in Southern California. It is said that if all those who have invested their dollars in his various schemes should attend his orations, there is no hall in Southern California large enough to hold the audience.

CHILDREN IN POLITICS.

An excellent opportunity is afforded to people who are opposed to having children appear upon the stage, and who are struggling to secure normal conditions for a normal childhood, to take cognizance of the infants who are demonstrating upon the suffragist platform. That these babes and sucklings should be called upon, or even be permitted, to take the stump for a political movement, argues but sadly for a speedy solution of the problems impinging upon the child's unquestionable right to be a child. Of course one understands that some means must be devised for reaching those who do not readily yield themselves to platform oratory, yet whose wavering attention might be caught through the seductive influence of yellow teas and kindred allurement; but need children be exploited to further this end? Is the exploitation of children for purposes of entertainment any more commendable upon the suffragist platform than upon the stage? In either instance it is merely a subverting of childhood from childish pursuits, to the uses of adult ambition. "Purposes of entertainment?" To be sure, for it is not to be supposed that even the most ardent suffragist seriously believes that children ranging from 11 to 14 years of age can add anything worthy of consideration to the volume of suffrage argument.

First among these juvenile sages, we have a boy orator of 13, who perforates the whole theory which the timid little "ahis" have built up with such patient research, in a few impassioned words of boyish wisdom. With the assurance of extreme youth, he sets aside any thought of menace to the home as "foolish," decrees from out his young wisdom that women who are unfamiliar with affairs of State are not fit to instruct children in the home. "I am glad to say that, among all my acquaintance, I know no such women," he declares, with a splendid apprehension of the finer qualities of his women friends. Is this the usual mental grasp, or the natural phraseology, of young boyhood? But then boy orators, like child actors, are expected to adhere rather closely to their lines.

Another child of remarkable gifts, this one a gentle little maid—who should be busy with her dolls and all the paraphernalia of her make-believe world—tells the grown-ups how far "women are qualified mentally, morally, and physically, to vote." Does a woman-child, not yet 14 years of age, comprehend in smaller degree the mental, moral, or physical capacities of adult womanhood?

Still another youngster, a boy, gravely discusses the effect of equal suffrage upon economic conditions, expressing it as his belief, "that in this alone will be found the power to advance wages." Of course the little fellow discussed the matter "gravely." His sense of humor has not yet had time to ripen. That he should discuss the "effect of equal suffrage upon economic conditions" is a rather prophetic vision, however, is to be found in the words of a boy of 11 who declares, in support of woman suffrage, that "nothing since the coming of Christ will be such a blessing." Does the mind hold a convincing picture of a boy of these tender years, following the intricacies of thought which this subject involves, and reasoning logically from cause to effect, until he is prepared to pass judgment upon the ultimate benefits of woman suffrage to the race, and determine its influence upon racial conditions. Providing for the farthestmost reach of mental vagary, is it conceivable that this boy, from his own conclusions, should give utterance to a pronouncement so stupendous? Not even the bespectacled seion of a long line of professional ancestors might attain to this eminence of mental endowment. But, we are told, this boy is the type of 11-year-old youngster who is thoroughly at home on the baseball diamond or leading in any boyish prank. Boyish pranks and woman suffrage! The combination is—unusual, at least.

This putting of words into the mouths of babes, that an added charm and piquancy may attend their utterances, is a gallery play bordering closely upon the spectacular. It is not through sensational methods such as these that truth is revealed. The race has passed beyond the "Punch and Judy" period of existence. If the agitation for woman suffrage is a humanitarian movement, as has been asserted; if the desire for the ballot is so universal and unanimous as has been alleged; if women are no longer able to administer the affairs of the home in the home, but must achieve this result indirectly through civic activities, as is maintained; if political power for women is the one panacea for racial injustices, as we are asked to believe—then, in the name of reason and common sense, cannot the question be determined upon its merits, without recourse to the theatricals? If the position of the woman suffragist cannot be defended by fair-minded discussion and logical reasoning, without any attempt to obscure the real issue, is the position tenable at all?

ELECTION OF U. S. SENATORS.
The amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing for the election of United States Senators by a popular instead of a legislative vote seems to be held up for the present, on account of a difference of opinion as to whether the vote should be taken under State or Federal control. In the Senate the constitutional amendment passed by a vote of 64 to 24. But there was added to the measure, as it came from the House, the Bristow amendment, which gives to the Federal government supervision of Senatorial elections. On the Bristow addition twenty of the Senators who finally gave their support to the amendment as amended, voted no, and the Bristow clause was adopted by a vote of only 45 to 44. Senator Works voted with the Democrats against giving the Federal government control of Senatorial elections. The Bristow amendment was carried by the casting vote of Vice-President Sherman. His right to vote at all was disputed, it being contended that his power to give a casting vote in case of a tie existed only with respect to ordinary legislation and did not pertain to amendments to the Constitution. This objection was probably overcome by the subsequent vote of 64 to 24, adopting the amendment with the Bristow clause added.

The amendment now goes to the House. It two-thirds of the members vote to accept it, with the Bristow clause added, it will then go to the Legislatures of the States for ratification or rejection. There is some doubt as to whether the House will accept the Bristow provision for giving the Federal government control of Senatorial elections. If it refuses to accept it then the proposed amendment to the Constitution, so as to provide for election of Senators by popular vote, will fall for the present. There is a strong sentiment in the House and in the Senate among Southern members against Federal supervision of elections, and this may defeat the amendment altogether. If the amendment as amended shall be accepted by the House, it will then go to the States for their action. To place the amendment in the Constitution requires a ratification by the votes of three-fourths of the States, or thirty-five States without Arizona and New Mexico, and thirty-six States with these nascent commonwealths added.

The amendment, with or without the Bristow clause added, will be ratified by the Legislature of California is certain, and The Times, which always accepts the irrevocable without carping, has no criticisms to offer, although the amendment will amount to a revolution, in that it will allow Senators to be elected by a plurality vote of the people instead of by the majority of the Legislature, and it entirely abolishes the system adopted by the fathers, of having the lower house represent the people and the upper house represent the sovereignty of the States. The Times considers it very doubtful whether the amendment will be ratified by three-fourths of the States. The Legislatures of twelve States can defeat it. Neither the six New England States nor the three Middle States can certainly be counted for it, and the six Southern States of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi, known as the "grandfather" States, will be almost certain to reject it on account of the provision allowing Federal supervision of Senatorial elections. Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, Maryland and West Virginia are all uncertain quantities, and, on the whole, the fate of the amendment may be classed as doubtful.

enormous income which her people receive from foreign investments and loans. The progressive increase of British wealth is without a parallel in the history of the world. From 1885 to 1889 the excess of England's imports over her exports was $445,000,000 per annum. The interests and profits on foreign and colonial investments were $350,000,000 per annum and there was left for further investment abroad, after adding the annual shipping profits, $330,000,000 per annum. The annual average of her exports twenty years ago was $1,145,000,000 and in 1910 it was $2,995,465,000. In 1890 her interests and profits on foreign and colonial investments was $350,000,000. Last year it was $900,000,000. The more capital that Britain invests in foreign countries, the greater is both the producing and purchasing power of the people of those countries and the more customers Great Britain has for her goods. It will be noted that British investments are mainly in railroads, in mines, in State and municipal bonds, in real estate and in mortgages. The money that Englishmen loan may be "embarked by the borrowers in manufacturing enterprises, but very little English capital is invested directly in American industrial plants. It is to the interest of England to sell us more goods and take her pay in more wheat and meat and cotton. It is to our interest to diminish our importations, spin our own cotton, hammer our own iron, have our own workers eat our own grain and meat. Without her American trade England would become bankrupt and her people go hungry. Without our English trade we would only be slightly and temporarily inconvenienced. We have no need as England has to send money abroad for investment, for we have ample use for it all at home. Unprospected and treasure-veined hills—broad sweeps of lands rich in plant food—unfettered streams, and untold deposits of coal and iron and oil invite capital and promise its investors a surer and safer return than can be obtained anywhere else in the world.

UNCLE WALT.

The Post Philosopher.
A statesman, wise and hoary, gets up some wondrous scheme to help our land to glory, and make life seem a dream. The people then discuss it about the clanging mart, dissect it, seam and guess, and take it all apart; some say it's wild and woolly, a silly lot of junk; one side declares it bulky, the other says it's punk. The man of moderation cashed in long ago; he gave things meditation, and he was always slow in forming his decision. Important things upon which, with eager, untroubled vision he measured pro and con. But now we break our tether when something greets our eyes, we damn it, we deem it, or land it to the skies. A treaty with the German, a work by Dr. Coolidge, a policy or sermon, a ball team or a book, we either praise it fully, or say that it is junk; one side declares it bulky, the other says it's punk. I'd like to meet a fellow who'd take the middle view, and wave his umbrella, and talk an hour or two, and give a demonstration of sense of long ago and the old time moderation that sized up con and pro. WALT MASON.
[Copyright, 1911, by George Matthew Adams.]

What He Was Ketchin'.
A Washington policeman found a negro, at 2 o'clock one morning, acting rather suspiciously in the neighborhood of some of the big houses on Massachusetts avenue. "Here, you!" shouted the policeman. "What are you doing here?" "Nothin'." "Well, I think you are. Explain now or I'll pull you in." "Boss," said the negro, "I ain't doin' nothin'! You see, I sings tesor in our church choir." "Well, what's that got to do with your being here?" "A heap, boss—a heap. I sings tesor in our church choir an' th' man what sings bass is sick." "Come along," said the policeman. "Hol on, boss—hol on! Th' man what sings bass is sick an' I's gotter take his place in th' choir; so, singin' tesor as I does, I's out here catchin' cold, so I kin sing bass." The serious illness of J. Proctor Knott of Kentucky recalls the fact that he was the discoverer of Duluth, and that his panegyric to the "Zenith city of the unsalted seas," delivered in the House thirty years ago, set the nation to laughing.

BURDETTE AT THE BAT.

The Dovecote.
The Dove of Peace visits all lands except Mexico. At times she even hovers above the clouds of paper-moko that veil the ever-threatening Balkans. In a day of adversity, she has been known to lay an egg in the helmet of the peace-loving Emperor of nearly all the Germans, and once upon a time, by the assistance of her good friends, the Japanese, she taught the Czar of entirely all the Russians not to sign a peace pact at the Hague with one hand, while he was making a grab at Manchuria with the other. "There's no such place" has no fury like a peace dove scorned.

But her home is the parlor of the Lake Mohawk Mountain House. There and only there has she found a place for her nest; a nook where she may rear her squabs. There she is at home with the wood pigeons and is not at all a stranger in the poultry yard among the hens. There she is domesticated. The Hague is all right as an experimental station. It does very well when the Dove wishes to meet a few friends when she is making her annual flights—and she flies very high—through Europe.

Some Class.
To begin with, the hotel is in a class by itself, a triumph over tradition; a refuter of hotel superstitions. It is run without newspaper aid, for one thing. It has never advertised. Unless, like other Feeding Foods, it can say, "I am advertised by my loving friends." When, forty-seven years ago, it was ready to open its hospitable halls for guests, a plain, Quaker-like announcement to that effect was printed in The New York Tribune. That was all. And straightway the house filled up.

Ever since there have been hotels, men have said it was a thing impossible to run a first-class hotel without a bar, either public, or else behind the door, where a man of quiet tastes could hide while he tasted something. A hotel could not be made to pay without thrice-cure parlors.

A man who wants a drink at the Mohawk must bring it with him in his system—a "left-over" from his last strenuous night in New York after the lamps were lit. And this temperance hotel has paid from its first season. It isn't a philanthropic institution. It's a hotel. Other resort hotels in New York manage to keep open, with the assistance of the bar, three months a year. Sometimes some stretch the stretch to four months. The Lake Mohawk Mohawk Hotel makes money five months every year. That's what it's run for. The prophets and profits. And it gets 'em both. It has no written rules. But there is an unwritten constitution.

You may not "arrive" and you cannot "depart" on the Sabbath. You must time your journey for the week days. You may not buy a Sunday paper. Wherefore you can walk the long, mossy Sunday-morning without thinking that you are wading through the waste rooms of a paper mill. Nor can you hire a horse for a ride or a carriage for a drive on the Sabbath. Nor is it permitted to take out a boat for a row on the beautiful lake that smiles before the hotel doors. Nor may you while away the Sabbath at cards. Nor on the golf links. There are no printed "rules" against these things, but you may not do any of them. That is the great strength of government that doesn't govern by over much government, and too many framed "regulations." You don't even have to go to morning prayers, which are held every morning at 9 o'clock in the parlor. You are welcome, but prayers are not compulsory. Consequently a great many people attend prayers. But if you tried to round them up for worship they'd stampede for the woods. No automobiles are allowed on the great estate, Sundays or week days. It has capacity for 500 guests. And as a rule, it plays to capacity.

The Peace Conference.
The conference on International Arbitration was attended by many distinguished delegates from all over Europe, the United States, Japan and China, and some of the quieter South American republics. There were college presidents, philanthropic millionaires, soldiers, teachers, preachers, doctors of divinity, archbishops, deans, bishops, and a man who can preach, John Clifford, pastor of Westbourne Park Baptist Church, London. The fighting leader of passive resistance to the unjust and oppressive education act of England. For refusing to pay the unfair school rates, as his fathers refused to pay a tax, Pastor Clifford has been sentenced to jail, and his household goods sold thirty-nine times—once for each of the Articles of the Charter of Liberties. George proclaims him "the best fighting Englishman since Oliver Cromwell."

Well, this man made a speech for universal peace and international arbitration; a speech that was loaded to the muzzle over a cartridge of clear, smokeless powder; double-shotted with good sense, statesman-like sanity, practical suggestion, mixed with oratorical and intellectual pitch-pine, and turpentine set on fire with the spirit and fired point blank, with a range clear across the continent, and a firing zone wider than the scope of an old-fashioned Allen's pepper box revolver, which is impossible. I never before realized what a beautiful thing peace is. There is nothing sump-pamby about her. John Clifford made the snow white Dove soar in ascending circles until the American eagle, in his Fourth of July clothes, looked like an incubated chicken in a flannel lined brooder, snuggling up to a heron's lamp, cheeping for his mother.

And the British Lion? Say, did you ever see a "Mexican dog," so called, that he made on sick to feel his naked back, shivering on the shady side of the street on a chilly November morning? Well, Clifford's Lion would have run away from that vilest exhibit of canine trepidation and epilepsy. I tell you, it takes a fighting man, with red blood in his veins, to show forth the grandeur and the splendid nobility of peace. Until I heard John Clifford peep condescendences have usually made me want to go out and enlist.

Respect For Religion.
For the sake of their cause, it is rather a pity that local suffragists
did not inform the Hon. Alma V.
Lafferty of Colorado that the ministers of Los Angeles are scheduled to preach from their pulpits in favor of suffrage on some Sabbath in the near future.

She is quoted as saying in her public address last Tuesday evening that she "had graduated from church work long ago and if she wants to be one of them now she gives it a dollar and goes on about her business doing something actually constructive."

Can any cause prosper by casting sneers on Christianity or its representatives? All churches and sincere church members will resent this uncalled for fling at religion.

Church July 11 and continues during the week. Church women of all de-interest in this school, which, when held here last year, proved successful. Mrs. D. B. Wells is the leader, a Chicago woman who is an expert in knowledge of missions, both home and foreign. Sessions will be held every afternoon

in the shape of conferences with Mrs.
Wells as lecturer. Robert E. Speer's

Patriotic Airs Provided With New

Words Wherever the Equality

of Suffrage Will Be Urged in Songs

and Flats—Other Matters of Moment That Impend.

The men who fought the battles of the Civil War little suspected that they were building woman suffrage bonfires and inspiring suffrage hymns. The Pasadena Citizens' Suffrage League,
with headquarters in the Kendall
building, yesterday issued a pamphlet of woman suffrage songs, all of which are to be sung to the tune of battle hymns of the rebellion. Thus, while the women may not act militant suffrage, they certainly propose to sing it.

Most of the songs are written by Pasadena patriots, including Elizabeth Boynston Harbert, Rebecca N. Howard,
Sophia M. Hale, Anna Gardner, Harriet H. Robinson and Gen. E. Estabrook. One of the songs bearing the alliterative title of "Taxation Tyranny" uses the tune of "Red, White and Blue." Two of them are to be sung to the tune of "John Brown." One called, "Give the Ballot to the Mother," goes with the music of "Marching Through Georgia." Mrs.
Harbert's song is called "New America," and is sung to the tune of the national anthem. The first verse says:

Our country, now from thee,
Claim we our liberty;

In freedom's name;
Guarding home's altar fires,

Daughters of patriot sires,
Thee zeal our own inspire,

Justly to claim.

One of the most pretentious of suffrage affairs yet arranged in the city which Mrs. Harbert Perry will give Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the Hotel Burlington. The programme includes music, not altogether
of the suffrage variety, as well as several clever suffrage speeches. This does not interfere with the public meeting to be addressed at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Choral Hall by Rev.
C. C. Pierce, whose subject will be
"Methods of Progress."

A precinct tea will be tendered the suffrage workers of the Eagle Rock district this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. M. E. Hickson. A suffragist will also address the State Association of Nurses, convening in this city today.

Clifford Howard will speak next Monday night at Blanchard Hall for the Votes for Women Club. His subject will be "Man's Need of Woman's Ballot." It is rumored that Mr. Howard, who is the author of "Sex Worship," and a half dozen other excellent works, is about to offer an illuminating volume on the suffrage question.

THE BOOTERY

THESE $4 and $5
values in pumps are making something of a sensation: Well, they ought to; they're beyond doubt the best shoes ever shown at such prices. The models, colors, fabrics, are striking and original, in the latest fashions; they're unusual at $4 and $5.

The children's shoes, which we sell, are made in the same excellent way that characterizes all footwear coming into or going out of this shop.

TRAFFIC RECORD. GRADE-CROSSINGS SAFETY ASSURED.

State Railroad Commissioners
Inspect Lines Here.

Automobilists to Receive a Grand Jury Warning.

Red Tape Prevents Prompt
Movement of Troops.

Co-operation between the trolley and
steam lines, the county supervisors, and the Automobile Club of Southern California, is assured in a campaign to reduce the number of collisions of trolley or steam trains with automobiles
at grade crossings.

John M. Eschelman, chairman, and
H. D. Loveland, a member of the State Board of Railroad Commissioners, accompanied by members of the Grand Jury, representatives of the Automobile Club, a deputy District
Attorney and officials of the Pacific
Electric, went over the Whittier, Long Beach and Covina trolley lines on a tour of inspection of grade crossings
yesterday. The trip took the party over about seventy-five of the 1700
grade crossings on the lines of the Pacific
Electric and allied companies.

At the close of the trip announcement was made in behalf of the railroad commissioners that following the receipt of a detailed report of dangerous
grade crossings they will make a number of recommendations regarding insuring the safety of these crossings.
It is expected that the railroad companies will follow the recommendations concerning the placing of safety signs and other devices required
on the right of way of the lines concerned,
while the county supervisors
and the Automobile Club would see to it that caution signs are placed on highways so as to warn auto drivers that a dangerous crossing was being approached. Charles P. Wier, foreman of the Grand Jury, and a director of the Automobile Club of Southern California, said last night that a formal letter would be issued warning
automobilists of the rules of the road with special reference to care to be exercised in approaching and crossing roadway tracks.

Eschelman, Loveland and Charles R.
Dietrich, secretary of the State Board,
returned to San Francisco last night.
They will return here the 26th inst.
for the hearing on the San Joaquin Valley rate case, and the harbor case,
at which time some further consideration
may be given the grade crossing problem. Upon their arrival in the city yesterday morning the State Commissioners were met at the office of the County Supervisors by Supervisors
R. W. Fridman and H. D. McCabe, Charles R. Wier, foreman of the grand jury, and John M. Eschelman, chairman.

threw, its secretary, Bryon C. Mann,
deputy District Attorney, A. S. Hall,
general counsel for the Salt Lake Railroad; W. H. Daum, industrial agent of the Santa Fe; Miss C. S.
Geary, secretary of the Automobile
Club of Southern California; E. G.
Kuster, an attorney, and a number of officials of the Pacific Electric. With the exception of Hallsted, Daum, Miss Geary and Kuster, the party went to the Pacific Electric Station at Sixth and Main streets. Accompanied by Vice-President Shoup, General Manager
McMillan, Chief Engineer Pillsbury, Assistant Engineer in Charge of Maintenance of Way Johnson, Tax
Contract Agent Hill, Superintendent
Maddox of the southern division, and Frank Karr, of the legal department,
all of the Pacific Electric, the party started on its tour of inspection in a special car.

The City Council of Whittier had named sixteen grade crossings on the Whittier line, six of which were designated as dangerous crossings.
The Covina Council had called attention to the crossings at Azusa avenue
and the Southern Pacific Railroad road at that place. There was a communication from William Thum, Mayor of Pasadena, respecting dangerous crossings on the Santa Fe and Salt Lake lines.

The first stop on the Whittier line
was made at Gage, where the county road crosses the electric line in a cut just east of a curve. It was suggested that the crossing signal of the railroad company could be better seen from the other side of the road, where approaching automobilists of the crossing
in time for them to reduce speed
before attempting to cross. Superintendent Fridman said this would be done.

This indicates the action that will probably be taken at all of the grade crossings that may be designated as dangerous crossings. The condition at the Downey road crossing, where five people were killed a short time ago, brought out a similar recommendation.
Other crossings on the Whittier line were inspected, after which the car returned to a junction with the tracks to Long Beach, when the party were the guests of General Manager
McMillan at lunch at the Hotel
Virginia, after which a fast run was made to Los Angeles, where the car was transferred to the southern division for the trip to Covina. Stops were made at the Azusa-avenue crossing,
El Monte-road crossings, with the decision on the part of the visitors that these are reasonably safe. Then the return was made to Los Angeles.

"We will investigate a detailed report
that will be sent us," said Commissioner Loveland, "after which we will make necessary recommendations, and we will have to issue orders and take means to enforce them. We have found a very gratifying spirit of cooperation on the part of all concerned
and anticipate no trouble."

May Not Move Troops.

Owing to a ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission there will be further delay in driving the socialist colony that has, under the guise of the rebellion in Mexico, carried out the plan of the United States.

made not long ago to transport Mexican troops from El Paso to the border of Lower California to drive out the insurgents at Mexicali and Tijuana. But when it came to publishing rates for the transportation of the soldiers the Southern Pacific
was informed that the usual rule requiring thirty days' notice before a rate could be put into effect would not be waived. An effort is now being made to secure a suspension of the rule but with not much show of success. Meanwhile the rebels are devastating the country in Lower California and adding to the death list.

Low Rate to San Francisco.
A special train will be run to San Francisco next Monday by the Southern California Sunday-school Association.
The Southern Pacific has announced
a rate of $10 for the round trip, with a fifteen-day limit, and a rate of $14.50 for the round trip good for thirty days. The tickets are good going on the Coast line and returning
on the Coast line or the valley line,
with stop-over privileges.

will assemble at the First Methodist Church, Sixth and Hill streets, and march to the Temple Auditorium
where graduating exercises will be held.
In this academic procession will be 219 graduates and 200 members of the faculty. The seniors and professors will wear the university
cap and gown.

The graduates are so numerous
that they will almost fill the Auditorium's great stage. There will be room for the deans of the several colleges, President George F. Howard and the speakers of the morning, Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of San Francisco.
The members of the faculty,
however, will occupy the orchestra
circle.

The exercises will be witnessed by an immense concourse, there being more than 1800 of the university
body alone.
The College of Arts campus on University avenue, near West Thirty-fourth street, was the scene of interesting class-day exercises yesterday afternoon. Notable among the events was the planting of the Ivy, President
Richardson delivering the address.
The ivy, on behalf of his son,

which graduates 219 strong in the Auditorium this morning. The classic ceremony of the ivy occurred on the university campus yesterday afternoon together with the other features peculiar to Class Day.

of Southern California. He stated that, when Washington Irving visited Abbottford, Sir Walter Scott's country home, he admired the ivy growing
on the walls of the historic mansion.
Sir Walter begged him to take a root across the Atlantic as a memento of his visit. Mr. Irving did so and planted it at Sunnyside, his home on the Hudson, where it thrives and still lives. Some years afterward,
Mr. Irving sent a root from Sunnyside to Horace Mann, then president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs,
O., where for five years it has flourished,
adorning the walls of Antioch College. The root he sent came from the famous plant.

The undergraduates indulged in the dance of the May Pole under the direction of Miss Edna Cox, crowning Miss Maude Spieker queen of the event. This was followed by a dance
by the Varsity Glee Club, the freshmen
boys, the sophomores as Japanese,
and the juniors as colonial gentlemen.
The traditional gifts of the upper classes, the seniors presented the university with an oak pulpit
and five oak chairs for the chapel.
President Howard made a hearty response in accepting the gift.

Last night at the University Church
Prof. Tully C. Knowles, held commencement exercises, the orators being Margaret Lydia Locke, Elsie May Thorne, Fred Lawrence Qualls and Margaret J. Chung, the latter a Chinese girl. Her subject was "The New Macdonald Call." Qualls' subject
address was, "The Man With the Hoe."
Miss Thorne, spoke of the "City Beautiful."
Miss Locke spoke of a famous character of Spanish history whose valor and genius had fascinated her during her last year of study.
The diplomas were presented by President Howard.

A COURT RECONCILIATION.

Husband Encircles Globe for Money
and is Brought Home Repentant
and Broke.
Thomas J. Carmody, mining expert,
globe-trotter and soldier of fortune,
recently arrested in Oklahoma City
and extradited to California, appeared yesterday before Justice Sumner Merfield to answer to a charge of deserting his wife, who was formerly in the government service at Washington.

The Carmodyes were married January 14, according to the testimony, at Jersey City, after strenuous objection
by Carmody's parents, who are prominent New Yorkers. On March 24, the man left his wife in this city, saying he was going to San Diego to look into a mining deal which he hoped would pan out well. But he did not return and since Mrs. Carmody had but $12 out of the $1600 she had turned over to him when they were married,
his wife soon became dependent upon friends.

When put on the stand, Carmody told
as if by rote the tale of his wanderings.
He said that he had traveled through various eastern cities, trying to raise funds from friends,
but did not go seriously to work to earn any. Because of his military experience in the Boer war, a memento of which he carries in the shape of a long scar over one shoulder,
he was asked, while in Texas, to join the insurgents under Price, who were then about to raid the northern provinces. This he said he would

RENEW OLD FRIENDSHIP.

Nurses Hold Reception Before
They Attend Business Today.
The opening reception of the annual convention of the California State Nurses' Association, which was given last night in the banquet hall
of the Angell Hotel, was an amiable reunion of those who, whether
part of the country they may be, encounter
the same difficulties and have the same problems to solve.
Although a few of the delegates
not due to arrive until this morning,
there was a large number, both from
the city and other parts of the state.
Present, Miss Caroline Beatty, president
of the Los Angeles County Nurses' Association, Mrs. C. D. Lusk, secretary of the same organization,
Miss Lydia Anderson, of Pasadena,
and Miss Moseley, of San Francisco.
The reception was merely as a formal affair, given primarily that it might have an opportunity to renew
so that when the convention opens
this morning there will be a fairly accurate list of those in attendance.

The State Councilors met last night and transacted certain business which was required to be done before the convention opens.
Today's programme will probably be the most of the convention. There will be addresses of welcome, reports
by the officers. Tonight's programme will be read during the day and there will be other addresses and reports
by the officers. Tomorrow morning will be devoted to the business section of the convention. The day will be between business and pleasure.
Afternoon having been set aside for the Angell Hotel.

CRUELTY IS CHARGED.

W. E. White of Bassett was arrested yesterday before Justice
Young on a charge preferred by Florence Fowler and Pultrina, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. His hearing was set for Monday, and he gave $1500 bond.
White is accused of working a dog to death. He was arrested last night and spent the night in the city jail.

A Warning

Envious of the wonderful success of Eilers' great Trustee Sale of the Brown & Co. piano stock, several small piano traders have sought to deceive the unsuspecting public into thinking that it was trading with Eilers. One of them has even gone so far as to establish a store in the immediate vicinity. To the public we issue this warning: Make sure that you bring this advertisement with you. Make sure that you ask for Eilers, the largest retail piano dealer in the United States. Make sure that you get in the right entrance—No. 244 S. BROADWAY. Ask for these advertised bargains. Do not go away disappointed by missing Eilers.

The Trustee is Here

and He Says "Get Rid of all of the Pianos and Player Pianos in the Brown & Co. Stock at Once. Wind Up the Sale."

The Great Trustee Sale of the Brown & Co. piano stock has been a record-breaker from the very start, and each week has brought us a bigger crowd of eager buyers than the previous week.

News that the Trustee took over all of Brown & Co.'s pianos spread like wild-fire. Scores of early purchasers have brought us hundreds of others, and this great increase of sales has been due entirely to the merit and low prices of the pianos we are offering. Nothing but straightforward, bona-fide offers would possibly have caused such a sensational and consistent increase in sales as we have experienced in the past weeks. The stock of Pianos secured by the trustees from Brown & Co. consisted of all makes, uprights, grands, player pianos, etc. Several styles have been closed out entirely because of the tremendous demand made upon us by Southern California dealers. And now the Trustee himself is here. He says, "Wind up the sale." A few more days ends it. Come now, if you ever expect to own a good piano.

Where Was the Plaza?

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—(To the Editor of the Times.) Referring to your articles proposing a historic pageant, let me say that the writer or writers are certainly misinformed when it is asserted that the present plaza was the one officially laid out by Gov. Felipe de Neve, when the pueblo of Los Angeles was founded September 4, 1781. The boundary lines of the first plaza with the adobe wall that surrounded the little pueblo, disappeared long years ago.

The late J. J. Warner, or Don Juan Warner, as he was more familiarly and affectionately known until his death a few years since, came to Los Angeles in 1821. In his "Historical Sketch of Los Angeles County," written in 1876, he describes the original plaza thus: "For the center of the town, a parallelogram 100 varas long and 75 wide, was laid out as a public square. Twelve horse lots fronting on the square occupied three sides of it, and one-half of the remaining side, of 75 varas was destined for public buildings, and the other half an open space. The location of the public square would nearly correspond to the following lines: the southeast corner of upper Main and Marchessault streets for the southern or southwest corner of the square; the east line of upper Main street, from the above-named corner, to the north line of the square; the eastern line of New High street for the western line of the square, and the northern line of Marchessault street for the southern line of the square."

Doubtless when Don Juan Warner reached Los Angeles, the remains of the first plaza could easily be traced. The writer has notes, taken years ago, of interviews with an aged Mexican who came here in 1805, and his description of the first plaza was substantially that of Warner. The first small chapel 25x30 feet, was built near New High street in 1784, but not completed until 1789. The congregation outgrew it and in 1811 authority was obtained from Commandante Sola to build a new one; a foundation was laid, but nothing further was done. In 1815 the rains descended and the floods came, with unusual severity, changed the course of the river, washed out the planting fields, and broke down the foundation. Commandante Sola ordered the site of the church changed to higher ground, "near the comendado's house," where it now stands. The plaza followed the church, for the fundamental purpose of a plaza, in a Spanish or Mexican town, was a place to hitch horses while the people attended mass.

There was no attempt made at ornamentation of the present plaza until Los Angeles merged from a pueblo to a city. In 1835, when Don Manuel Requeña was alcalde, the plaza "as it now appears," is of comparatively recent date. In 1868 a lease by the city gave the Los Angeles Water Company ten inches of water from the river at a rental of $1500 per annum, but within the year allowed an annual rebate of $1100 on condition that the company maintain grass and trees, and erect a monument there.

HE ARRIVED TOO LATE.

Last Man Indicted by Grand Jury Doesn't Even Get Run for His Money in Mexico.

The last indicted has been indicted by the Federal grand jury. His deadly gun and sword, marked "Exhibit A," for the purposes of identification, are to be found at the office of the United States District Attorney, and the battle flag of Saltillo, Aldena, who was captured at San Diego, has been buried forever.

By the terms of the indictment returned against Aldena yesterday, he is charged with setting on foot a military organization to be carried on from the territory of the United States to that of Mexico, and against the public peace, etc. At the time of the capture of Aldena, he had with him about half a dozen followers, but the Mexican government collapsed before he could get into action, and he was left without a command and without a country.

Other indictments returned by the grand jury were as follows: Maggior, charged with bringing with him into the country boxes of opium; P. J. 1911, several John Gordon, who is alleged, on June 4, 1911, drove into the United States from Mexico, without the necessary invoice, four horses. The grand jury adjourned until tomorrow morning, when, it is expected, other indictments will be returned.

Proceedings Are Brought to Set Aside Property Transferred to Her Daughter—Deals Involving Large Sums—Escape Memory—Gains Notoriety Through Threat.

Mrs. Della B. Rawson, who has been in the limelight a great deal recently through her connection with the Security Law and Adjustment Company, a divorce agency, which has offices in Reno, Nevada, and at San Francisco, appeared yesterday before Justice conducted by Attorney Wright, acting in the interest of Milo Potter, Dr. Paul Edwards and Mrs. Margaret E. Walker. The proceedings were brought to set aside certain large transfers of property made by Mrs. Rawson as attorney, in fact, for her daughter, Mrs. Marie Fuller, who is declared to be the holder of property worth more than $125,000. Potter wishes to collect a judgment of $10,234, Edwards a judgment of $12,240 and Mrs. Walker one of $250. The last is the specific claim upon which the investigation of yesterday was based.

Potter's clients claim that Mrs. Rawson's property really belongs to her mother, and that it should be used to pay Mrs. Rawson's debts. The latter with much skill, during a close examination by Wright. When confronted with the fact that she had received a large sum of money from Mrs. Rawson, she always said that it was a loan, which she "could not recall." Small transactions like the $25,000 loan, made her by Potter, which she was secretly informed, which she claims is her son's, were sent to her in the afternoon to prompt more than thirty checks.

This is an association of a number

The Drake packing-house is one of the largest and most perfectly equipped in the citrus belt.

The Drake Valencia crop is all shipped for the present season, the total being 158 cars as against 126 last season. Drake has been successful in principally a Navel orange country,

but the Valencia have proved so highly successful that an increasing amount of attention is now being devoted to their culture and we shall soon have a much larger pack than at present, notwithstanding the effects of outside help to handle it, which hitherto has been needed.

Some growers here picked their Valencias several weeks prior to the opening of the season, the object being to obviate the retaining of the good color attained by the fruit and which disappears if it is not then packed; a few weeks storage in the packing-houses had the effect also

of almost entirely eliminating the

decay in transit, such decay having developed before packing, instead of

after; the early picking in short, has been so successful in its effects that it will be repeated next season.

PIONEERS TO HOLD PICNIC.

"Battles and Leaders of the Civil War,"
By Great Writers.

An Index to What is Coming in THE SUNDAY TIMES

June 18: WHEN MCLELLAN WAS CLOSE TO THE

GATES OF RICHMOND. By Mrs. Burton Harrison, who, as a girl, spent the Civil War in Richmond, and there met the private secretary of President Jefferson Davis, who afterwards became her husband. The famous novelist tells of life and events in the Confederate capital when McClellan had taken the army of the Potomac within sight of the steeples of Richmond; of the inflow of the wounded after the battle of Seven Pines and the seven days' fighting; of President

Davis on the streets of the city; of life in general in the besieged and anxious capital.

June 25: STUART'S RIDE AROUND MCLELLAN. By

Col. W. T. Robins, C.S.A., who was in command of Stuart's advance guard during the greater part of Stuart's audacious raid, with twelve hundred men, around the army of the Potomac as it lay before Richmond after the battle of Seven Pines. An event that electrified the South and filled the North with grave foreboding for the safety of its splendid fighting force on the Peninsula of Virginia.

July 2: THE BATTLE OF FREDERICKSBURG AS I

SAW IT. By Lieut.-Gen. James Longstreet, who commanded the left of the Confederate army at one of the most disastrous defeats

sustained by the Union forces during the war, and whose men repulsed with awful slaughter the numerous Federal charges upon the famous stone wall upon the heights above the little Virginia city on the Rappahannock.

July 9: IN FRONT OF THE STONE WALL AT FRED-

ERICKSBURG. By Brig.-Gen. John W. Ames, whose brigade, the day after the battle of Fredericksburg, lay flat on the ground before the stone wall from sunrise to sunset under the pitiless fire of the very men who the day before had mowed down the Union columns as they charged up Marve's Heights. Also, the story, by Brig.-Gen.

Rush C. Hawkins, of how he persuaded Gen. Burnside, in command of the army of the Potomac, not to renew the battle of Fredericksburg, an act on Gen. Hawkins's part that undoubtedly saved thousands of lives from being wasted in further attempts to carry the stone wall, an impossible task.

July 16: (Five days before the fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Bull Run.)—INCIDENTS OF BULL RUN. By Brig.-Gen.

John D. Imboden, C.S.A., whose battery of four guns for half an hour alone and unsupported opposed the Union flanking column, advancing to the plateau on which the actual battle of Bull Run was fought. Gen. Imboden was in the thick of the fight; he saw "Stonewall" Jackson, "Joe" Johnston and Gen. Beauregard in the heat of battle, and he also tells a story of President Jefferson Davis on the field of battle after victory had been won by the Confederates.

July 23: HOW I SEIZED MASON AND SLIDELL FOR

CAPTAIN WILKES. By Rear-Admiral D. MacNeill Fairfax, who, as executive officer of the "San Jacinto," accomplished the actual removal of the Confederate commissioners to England and France

from the British mail steamer "Trent" on the high seas, an act that almost brought on war between the North and Great Britain.

July 30: HOW I DESTROYED THE CONFEDERATE

RAM ALBEMARLE. By Commander W. B. Cushing,

U.S.N., who tells how he conceived and executed the plan of blowing up with torpedoes one of the most famous Confederate iron-clads,

and of the many adventures that befell him as he made his escape

from under the very guns of the Albemarle through enemy-invested swamps and down enemy-infested rivers to the Union blockading afternoon. In the base ball line and when some one had nerve enough to pick up the corpse and move it to one side it was found to be that of Brackenridge, late of Pennsylvania.

Shot to Pieces.

He proved to be a fine sparring partner for the Beavers for they punched him and slapped him all over the lot. There were none of his leads that they did not block and counter with a punch that left a mark. The pace finally became so hot that he took the count in the 10th round and young Gipe, who took his

in the last round to be sure of getting the decision.

First Tiger Run.

In the fourth inning Kane smacked
a grounder to Peckinpugh that he threw low to first base and Johnny promptly stole second. He stuck
there until Barry allowed Simon's grounder to get between his legs and this is how Vernon scored its first run, for Kane reached the plate on the error. In the seventh with one out Brasher was passed, advanced to second on McKinn's pass, to third on Burrell's hit over third base and scored the second and final Vernon
run on Brown's out at first base.

Brackenridge Gets Hit

Brackenridge began to wobble in the first inning when he was hit for a single and walked a man and he commenced to explode in the second. The pitcher came up was Tom Sheehan and he hit a double over first base. Peckinpugh singled to left and stole second and after Murray had fanned Brack filled the bases with a pass to Koestner. Then Chadbourne rapped a hard single to the bench. Five runs had crossed the plate by this time, and Gipe managed to keep any more from arriving.

Youngster Does Well

Gipe shut them out in the seventh and eighth, but in the ninth Raps Sheehan and Peckinpugh hit in succession, and Raps scored when Murray hit into a double play. Koestner was safe at first when Burrell threw his grounder wide to Patterson.
Koestner stole second, went to third on Chadbourne's infield hit, and scored.

TRUTH ABOUT JACK HALLA, THE ANGELS' NEW PITCHER

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
LOUISVILLE (Ky.) June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jack Halla, a former premier southpaw of the American Association, who was sold recently to the Los Angeles club in the Coast League, is the last of the old guard of the Louisville club.

Following the discussion in the club
last year in which Halla played a rather prominent part, he has been more or less under the ban since Del Howard came from Chicago to take up the managerial duties of the local team.

Halla should be a great help to the western club. During the spring he had an attack of typhoid fever and when the season opened he was given two or three trials by Manager Howard, and according to Howard, he failed to show his old-time form and,
as there were more promising players
on the staff, he was sold.

The warm air in the West should bring him around and he should be able to win the majority of his games. Both he and his wife are well pleased with the prospects in Los Angeles.

It is said that the real reason for his being sold was that Howard was determined to clean out the old men who were on the club in 1909, when Louisville won the pennant. He has managed to get rid of all of them,
with the exception of Catcher Hughes.

AWFUL SLAUGHTER OF THE ANGELS.

Twelve Runs Scored in the Fifth Inning.

Thorsen Roughly Handled by the Oak Batters.

Youngster Driscoll Is Given Baptism of Fire.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The lowly Oaks beat the Angels, 17 to 4, today and the Commuters also busted all known records and piled up twelve runs in a single inning.

It was Mr. "Babe" Thorsen who allowed all the damage. Thorsen followed Criger, whose dangle came about after an inning that included two runs, a homer and four singles, and he got away with his game very well indeed until that remarkable fifth.

There were all sorts of things, such as walks and singles and even doubles, but the crowning feat of the inning was Cutchaw's homer over the right field fence that cleared the thickly populated bases and added four more to the tallies.

Driscoll was put in at a later stage of the proceedings. The San Francisco pitcher, who has heretofore been pitching for Larkspur, did not come out unscathed, but as compared with either Criger or Thorsen, he was immense.

Tyler Christian pitched hitless ball for the Oaks for four innings and although after that he gave the Southerners three of their runs, there was no suspicion that Tyler, backed up with such a strong lead, was just the least bit careless of what might happen in the innings to come.

Lefty Miller, late of the North-western League, was introduced in the seventh. Miller was tagged for a run but that came by way of an error and was not to be charged up against him wholly.

STORY OF MASSACRE.

The memorable fifth inning was started when Hoffman shot the ball for a single and stole second because of Grindle's weak throw. Margaret's hunt toward third was a hit. Margaret then tried Donlin, Maxima, Tony Koch and Cruzina also ran.

Four and one-half furlongs, purse $100, 1:06 (Walsh), won; Lavin, 1:08 (Kedrick), second; Thistle Rose, 1:07 (Kirschbaum), third; time, 1:07. Slooping, Penning, Great Fiar, Mims, Zacher, McGee, and Helting walked to fill the bases with not one down.

Clyde Wares planted the ball in center to tally Cutchaw with run number three. Mize forced Helting at third base, but Zacher talked on the same out and made it four runs for the Oaks.

And then with Wares caught between second and third, third out. Akin added to the misery of the occasion with his second error of that inning, a wild throw that left Wares safe at third and Mize down at second.

Tyler Christian popped to Grindle but Fry walked and once again the bases were full. Hoffman's second single, this time over third into left, was long enough to send Wares and Mize home with tallies numbers five and six. Margaret sent another single into left that again filled up the bases and then came that home run from Cutchaw, a drive over right that made it ten runs all told. Even that did not stop the Commuters. Zacher hit safely down toward second and along with Helting, who shot the ball into right and stole, he scored on a two-bagger by Wares.

The Oakland shortstop went to third on a wild pitch, but Mize fouled to Akin and the agony was over.

BOWLING

Balch and Tormas still top the list in the Grand alley. They are now playing a doubles tournament with 1241 pins for the three games. Taylor and Baird are second, with 1234, and Taylor and Balch third, with 1217.

Up to date there have been over 200 entries in this tournament. The "pot" is well over the $200 mark. It is more than probable that 1241 will win first money and maybe 1234 will get second, but it is a safe bet that 1237 will be beaten for third.

How about deciding on the protested games in the Interurban League? The officials of the league and the managers of the different teams should get together and settle this matter as soon as possible, or before the question becomes too old.

The projected games of the Venice Club probably concern several of the leading teams and the question should be brought to a point.

The Ship Cafe team with the Old Quakers Monday night, and the latter team bowled for average on the Rimini alley. It is to be deplored that any team should forfeit its games in this manner, and it is not fair to other teams who have already met and probably lost games to them.

The Old Quakers showed the proper spirit in carrying out their part of the programme, although they were forced to roll two "allowances" a game, being unable to get together more than three of their men.

"Moccasin" Turner was not "among those present" in the Orpheum line-up against the New Bachelors at the Grand Monday night. Of course, a game of this nature would tell almost as much as a 200 score was shot by the Orpheums. It is a rare thing when "Moccasin" fails to get at least one game over the two century mark and he often fills out the string.

The Los Angeles motorcycle team's carburetor must not have been working right in its race with the Panjoys of Rincon's alley Monday night, as the Panjoys rode away with three straight games with apparent ease.

The winners rolled 364 in the second game—a high game for class "A" teams. The "gasoline bugs" could an old-timer, a hard contest.

Mr. McGinley, who is fact becoming one of the leading ball bowlers in this city, rolled the excellent score of 184 Tuesday evening on the Panjoys alley. Most of her scores now are well over the 150 mark, and while she is practically a beginner in the ten pin game, it is not uncommon for her to give her husband, who is fact becoming one of the leading ball bowlers in this city, a hard contest.
